Priests at the Polls In Cork.

TRAIN WRECKERS ON TRIAL.

Largest Suit Ever Brought in the U. S. Court.

Ex-Assemblyman Bruner Conducts His Own Case.

Priests at the Polls.
By Cable and Associated Press.]

CORK, Nov. 6.—An election is being held here to-day for a successor to Parliament of the lat Charles Stewart Parnell, who represented Cork City in the Commons. The Parnellite candidate is John E. Redmond, and Martin Flavin, a butter merchant of this city, is the McCarthyite candidate.

The influence of the priests is with the McCarthyites. They made a house canvass of votes, following immediately after the Parnellite canvassers, and threatening the electors with all sorts of horrible things if they vote for Redmond or failed to vote for Flavin. In order to avert a possible disorder the polls were strongly guarded by the police. The voting is active, but up to 10 o'clock everything was quiet. Many priests are stationed about the polls, mingled with the voters and giving them final instructions and admonitions, or making final appeals before they entered the polling places.

In addition to the precautions taken bp the police authorities, the whole garrison of Cork and of the adjoining fortifications are confined to their barracks and there held under arms. The troops will remain until all possibility for serious rioting is vanished.

News from Brazil.
By Cable and Associated Press.]

PARIS, Nov. 6.—A dispatch from Rio Janeiro states the elections for the members of the new Chamber of Representatives are expected to take place in January. Congress will revise the constitution and it will retain its Republican and Federative character. The dispatch further states that a commission has been appointed for the summary trial of persons charged with being enemies of the Republic. Upon conviction on that charge they will be banished from the country.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Advices received by the Times to-day from Rio Grande do Sul declare that the army and navy compelled President Da Fonseca to assume the Dictatorship, and there is considerable agitation in the province of Rio Grande do Sul, where the late events at Rio Janeiro are considered to be but a prelude to the restoration of the empire.

The Times' dispatch continues: "Northern Brazil is decidedly in favor of an empire, and only in central Brazil is the Republic popular. This may lead to Dom Pedro's grandson becoming chief, under the regency, of three prominent citizens."

Convicts Returning.
By Associated Press.

NASHVILLE (Tenn.), Nov. 6.—Up to last night one hundred and twenty-seven of the released convicts had returned to Nashville. The miners in the Coal Creek district are still in a ferment. Their releasing the convicts does not seem to have satisfied, and unless other demands made by them are conceded by the operators, a strike may occur. The Governor has not yet done anything in regard to the ordering out of troops, but it is said they would not be surprised if they were called out.

All Quiet in Brazil.
By Cable and Associated Press.]

RIO JANEIRO, Nov. 6.—The situation of affairs here to-day are reassuring. The troops which have been guarding the telegraph offices since the disturbance commenced have been withdrawn. Complete order prevails and the usual amount of business is being transacted. The government has ceased to interfere with any telegrams, and the general impression is that a revolution is no likely to occur. The prosperity of the country is unimpaired by the recent occurrences.

14,000,000 Acres.
By Associated Press.]

MUSKOGEE (I. T.), Nov. 6.—Sarah Ellis and other Cherokee Indians have filed a petition asking for a partition and allotment of the Cherokee lands. Joel B. Mayes, Chief of the Nation, and other were made defendants. The petition asks for the allotment of 14,000,000 acres equally among the five tribes of the nation. This suit is the largest ever brought in the United States Court.

Bruner Conducts His Own Case.
Special to GAZETTE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—Ex-Assemblyman Bruner not having succeeded in obtaining a writ of prohibition from the Supreme Court, his case came up in Judge Wallace's Court this morning. Attorney-General Hart was present, as were also members of the Grand Jury who had been subpoenaed as witnesses at Bruner's request.

Bruner stated that as his counsel was physically unable to make an argument, he would conduct his own case. Barclay Henley, foreman of the Grand Jury, was then called as a witness and was asked by Bruner if it was on the latter's testimony that the indictment for perjury had been found against him. The court sustained District Attorney Barnes' objection. Bruner questioned Henley as to how he came to be a member of the Grand Jury, and if he had not consented only upon the earnest solicitation of certain persons. Bruner stated that he wished to show that the members of the jury were biased, but the court sustained the objection, and also to questions whether special counsel had not been employed and whether witness had not contributed money to employ detectives and special counsel. Bruner objected strongly to the court's ruling, and claimed his questions pertained directly to the matter of bias. He then proceeded to argue the question of the legality of the Grand Jury, quoting from the consolidation act, the county government act and the constitution, to show there had been an unwarranted exercise of power in the method of impanelling the Grand Jury. He also quoted authorities to support his contention that the indictment could not be brought against him on testimony given by him as a witness.

District Attorney Barnes and Attorney-General Hart then began the argument on behalf of the people.

Maverick Bank.
By Associated Press.]

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—Thomas P. Beal has had his bond as receiver of the Maverick bank approved by the court. The assets of the bank cannot be handed over to him by the examiner until an investigation has been made of them by the Examiner. This will require a delay of several days.

James H. French was brought before Judge Nelson on a writ of habeas corpus. On his plea for a reduction in bail the amount was lowered to $50,000. District Attorney Allen said he received a statement from Examiner Ewer that Potter, French and Dana owed the Maverick bank over $2,500,000. He further stated: "The Examiner said that among the assets of the bank he found notes indorsed by three of the accused directors, promisors of which could not be found and whom he believed did not exist."

The bank Examiner turned over to the Assistant United States Treasurer $1,139,800 for the benefit of the creditors of the Maverick National Bank. A run is being made on D. Filippo's Italian bank. The concern had some money deposited in the Maverick bank but is perfectly solvent. Comptroller Dacey arrived this morning. He had a conference at the Maverick bank with the receiver, Examiner Ewer and the Clearing House committee.

The Earthquake in Japan.
By Associated Press.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—A telegram from the Japanese Government was received to-day by Tateno, the Japanese Minister, giving an account of the earthquake which occurred in Japan on the 18th of October. It seems from this report the damage caused by the earthquake was confined almost entirely to the perfectures of Aichi and Gifu. Nagoya is the chief city in the Aichi prefectnre and has a population of 150,000. There are very large cities in the Gifu prefecture. No mention is made of any damage in any other parts of Japan. According to this information, 6,500 persons were killed, 9,000 were injured, 75,000 houses totally destroyed and 12,000 badly damaged.

Bank Run About Over.
By Associated Press.]

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—The run on the Five-Cent Savings Bank continues this morning, but in a lessened degree. President Evans says the run is about over. Some who withdrew have to-day returned to deposit again. Less than one per cent. of the deposits were withdrawn on the heaviest day of the run.

The Train Wreckers.
Special to the GAZETTE.]

AUBURN (Cal.), Nov. 6.—The examination of the Roberts Bros. in the train wrecking case was resumed this morning with the re-calling of J. R. Brees. His wife had told him nothing of the memoranda taken by her as to her conversation with the Roberts boys and a printer on the Colfax Sentinel; had a talk with Al Roberts a day or two after the wreck; Al told him he could lay his hands on the parties that did the work. After his arrest he made a statement that Dibble read in open court. He states that his brother Jeff asked him a day or two before the wreck if he wished to make some money; soon after Jeff took a bar and drill to the shop on Roberts' place and Al heard him at work on them. On the morning of the wreck he and his father went up to help the passengers; got home about 6 o'clock in the morning; Jeff came soon after and his hands were blackened. Jeff said "don't tell on me, I ditched the train;" I told him I would tell on him.

Miss Mabel Ingersoll stated that she was engaged to Al Roberts and had planned to elope with him, before the wreck occurred. She received a letter from him in which he stated he had been suspected of the wrecking.

Sheriff Conroy was sworn; his testimony corroborated the previous statements with regard to the wreck; he saw Jeff Roberts and Jeff told him he knew the bar could be found near the wreck; Al reasserts that he found the claw bar with the claws broken off and hid it in the leaves, where he found it; when he went back with Dyer they could not find it. In questioning Al further the latter fell into a crying spell and said, "my God, must I give my own brother away." He pointed over to Jeff and said, "there is one of them." He was crying at the time. Adjourned.

FREE COINAGE BILL,

Sherman Thinks Will be Passed

BY CONGRESS IN DECEMBER,

And that it Will be Vetoed by the President.

Silver and Tariff Leading Issues in Next Campaign.

Sherman on the Election.
By Associated Press.]

CLEVELAND (O.), Nov. 6.—A correspondent of the Leader at Mansfield sends an interview with Senator Sherman on the recent election. In answer to the question as to what effect the result in Ohio would have upon the election next year, the Senator said:

"In the first place, so far as the Republican party is concerned, the result in Ohio fixes the silver question as one of the issues in the next Presidential contest, and decides it so far as this State is concerned. I am convinced that a free coinage bill will be passed by Congress, which assembles in December. I also believe that such a bill will be vetoed by President Harrison. That will naturally make free silver a feature in the next Presidential fight. In fact, it will be the leading issue, upon which there are vast differences of opinion in both parties. It is exactly like the tariff, local conditions and interests govern the sentiment and action. I doubt very much whether the Democracy in the National Convention will proclaim for free coinage. If they should, there will be no other issue of significance in the next campaign. The financial battle that we fought in Ohio will then be transferred to the nation, and contests such as we have never seen will be the result. The tariff will be a prominent, but not the vital point of the contest."

"Then the McKinley bill is not the only thing in sight?" was asked Sherman.

"Not by any means. Its principles in the main are correct. Protection is a relative term with many degrees; what pleases or interests in one section, excites in another, and it is extremely difficult to make a measure that will be accepted alike to consumer, producer or manufacturer.

"The tariff question is practically settled for the time being, but it will always be a source of agitation as long as the Government lasts. During the next session of Congress it can hardly be considered, but in the next campaign it will be the leading issue with the silver question, just as it has been in Ohio this year."

THE San Francisco Chronicle says: The election of McKinley has doubtless caused a great depression in England, where, owing to an insufficient knowledge of our system of government, so many believed that his defeat would result in an immediate repeal of the tariff act which bears his name. This curious mistake is not only made by persons of limited intelligence, but is gravely repeated by editors who ought to know better. They will probably assume that his election is equivalent to an indorcement of the new Tariff act by the American people, and that as a consequence the McKinley bill will remain the law of the land for some time." Such an inference will be correct, though the free traders in the United States will not be inclined to assent to the correctness of the manner of arriving at the conclusion.

NOW THAT Schmidt, the burglar and all-round hard case, has committed suicide the friends of Sidney Bell, accused of the murder of Jacobson in San Francisco some time ago, will have great difficulty in proving his innocence an the existence of an illeged plot to kill him. Will L. Clemmens, who made the assertion that District Attorney Barnes and Police Captain Lees were engaged in this vile conspiracy, would have trouble to prove his charges were he asked to do so. However, it is said that murder will out, and if there has been any crooked work in bringing an innocent man to the gallows to cover up a family slander, it will be exposed some day—if not before the execution of the innocent man, then after. This may not be very consoling to him, but it may worry the other actors to some extent.

THE drummers say that Reno is the best little town on the coast to-day in a business way. They say that the merchants here pay more promptly and their orders are larger than in any small town in California. If they talk that way in every town they visit it will be a good advertisement for us. The GAZETTE believes that the people in this county are more prosperous generally than they are most anywhere on the coast.

THE Farmers' Alliance of Sacramento county has filed a protest with the Board of Supervisors against a proposed permission for the hydraulic miners to have a ninety days' "clean up." It would be interesting to know where the Sacramento Board of Supervisors gets the power to override the courts by giving any such permission.

OHIO was the only State that held an election Tuesday where national issues were at stake. In New York the right thinking men in both parties were trying to floor Tammany, but the boodlers who have had that State by the throat so long are hard to down. What a calamity it would be if Tammany should name the next President.

ENGLAND'S 16-inch guns on her iron-clads have failed, but our Ordance Department seems to have no doubt that it can make a successful gun of that type. Nor is it known that the Krupp guns of that size have failed. What is the matter with the "workshop of the world" that it cannot keep pace with our gun-makers?

THE English newspapers complain bitterly of the McKinley bill because it has driven from Sheffield to America a rich manufacturer, who must hereafter employ American labor. Will our Democratic contemporaries point out where America is injured in this connection?

A WASHINGTON correspondent says that reciprocity negotiations are now going on between our Minister to Mexico and a special delegate appointed by the Mexican Government, and that they will go outside of the McKinley bill in making up their schedule.

THE New York Chamber of Commerce evidently thinks itself the whole nation. Its "prayer" made yesterday to Congress and the President on the silver question should find a resting place in the nation's waste basket.

FOODS OF THE FUTURE.

Nuts One of the Most Valuable—Large Return from Their Culture.

Learned men of the present day are much exercised about the kind of food necessary to produce the greatest amount of muscular health and strength, says Vick's Magazine, and nuts of all kinds have been pronounced by them par excellence as an article of diet. Besides the beauty of nut trees and the gastronomic utility of their fruits, nut plantations seem to be rapidly making fortunes for those who have been sage enough to invest in them.

Chief Van Dieman, of the department of agriculture, predicts that the cultivation of nuts will soon be one of the greatest and most profitable industries in the United States. The large returns from individual trees and immense profits from established orchards have stimulated the interest, and our foremost enterprising fruit growers are planting nut trees largely for market purposes; others who enjoy nuts during the winter are realizing that they may be had in abundance for the mere trouble of planting.

The pecan is the nut of the future, Mr. Van Dieman thinks, but he forecasts large returns from walnuts, chestnuts, pine and hazelnuts, almonds, filberts, etc. "A grower in Florida has now a grove of four thousand pecan trees six years old; when they begin to bear their product will be worth one hundred thousand dollars yearly at wholesale." But this is counting chickens too soon. "C. H. Daniels, of Georgia, has a pecan tree which bears annually from ten to fifteen bushels of nuts, which sell readily at wholesale for four and five dollars per bushel." Col. Stuart, of Ocean Springs, Miss., who has made a wide reputation as a successful cultivator, says:

"I planted those large paper-shell pecan nuts when I was fifty-seven years old, and now, at sixty-nine, I tell you they help me to live. I got one hundred and seventy pounds from one tree last fall, sold one hundred and five pounds for one-hundred and five dollars, and planted the remainder of them, and have raised a fine lot of young trees, which are for sale. Pecan culture, planting the very large nuts, I consider one of the safest and best-paying industries a man can engage in." This combined cloud of witnesses and figures certainly does make orange growing and tobacco growing seem much less tempting.

The pecan forests in Texas furnish large quantities of pecans to the markets of New Orleans, whence they are shipped to Europe, where they are said to bring a higher price than any other nut.

DEBORAH'S BROWN HAIR.

A Curious Story from Maine of a Love Lock and a Stick of Wood.

Thirty-seven years ago, says the Boston Traveller, a Yankee fishing skipper of Vinal Haven, Me., named Solomon Marshall, was courting Deborah Sholes, of Upper Port La Tour, N. S. While at her home he had begged a lock of her beautiful golden brown hair. During the succeeding winter, which he spent at his home, he received the news that the young lady of his heart had turned fickle and was allowing another the honor of her company to village merry-making.

In his despair he and a friend named Colby, who was afterwards killed in the war, bored a three-quarter inch hole into a white birch tree then about five inches through, put the hair in and drove home after it a pine plug. The next summer he went back to Novh Scotia and married the fair Deborah, in triumph over his rival, and brought her to the states, where he afterwards died. He never thought it necessary to reclaim the hair, and there it remained for year after year, the tree waxing large and strong, and covering over with its white wood and paper bark the precious token hid in its bosom. Last winter Mr. Edwin Smith, who now owns the old Marshall farm, cut the tree for firewood. In splitting the wood the ax happened to lay the tree open exactly on a pine plug, with a lock of beautiful hair behind it. The outside end of the plug was covered by three inches of solid wood, which consisted of thirty-seven annual rings. The hair and plug are now in possession of Mrs. Margaret Turner, of Isle au Haute, Me., the sister of the heroine of this little romance, who is now Mrs. Saunders, of Lockport, N. S.

Unique Autograph Collection.

A wealthy Tenth street merchant has a collection of autographs which for uniqueness has no comparison outside of the possession of modern Goulds or Vanderbilts, says the Philadelphia Record. Everyone of the autographs is worth at least five dollars, and there are upward of fifty thousand of them. He began about five years ago to collect five-dollar bills containing the signatures of the different national bank presidents of the United States. He has now nearly two hundred and fifty thousand dollars tied up in this queer scheme, and declares that his collection is not complete by many thousands of dollars yet. He is willing to give one hundred dollars for a five-dollar bill bearing the signature of Walter Ross Raymond, who was at one time president of a short-lived bank at Oneko, O. For some reason there was only five of the bills issued. No trace of them can be found. Inquiry at the office of the treasurer of the United States develops the fact that they are still floating about the country, if in existence.

The Admirable American Girl.

Charles Dudley Warner, in Harper's Magazine, puts the case of the American girl this way: "If the American girl goes in seriously for repose, she will be able to give odds to any modern languidity or to any ancient marble. If what is wanted in society is still hauteur and languid supercilliousness or lofty immobility, we are confident that with a little practice she can sit stiller, and look more impassive, and move with less motion than any other created woman. We have that confidence in her ability and adaptability. It is a question whether it is worth while to do this; to sacrifice the vivacity and charm native to her, and the natural impulsiveness and generous gift of herself which belongs to a new race in a new land, which is walking always toward sunrise."

EX-PRESIDENT HAYES

Interviewed by an English Reporter.

A young Englishman, a reporter on a New York newspaper, relates one of his early experiences: "I was sent up to interview a fellow by the name of Hayes, don't you know, who was stopping at an uptown hotel. The slip I was given by the city editor read:

"'See ex-President Hayes at the ——— hotel, and get something about his plans in New York.'

"I found the hotel and sent up my card. I was received quite nicely by Mr. Hayes. He told me what he was going to do, and then, as I wanted to make my story complete, I asked him what he was ex-President of.

"He told me he was ex-President of the United States. It was awfully confusing, don't you know," concluded the young Englishman, plaintively, "but there are so many ex-Presidents over here."

JOTTINGS.

If it were not for hunger, some men would never do an honest days work. This in no way applies to the boarders of the Riverside Hotel for they are all men who like work better than play.

There is None Better.

Dr. R. L. St. John of Howland, Putnam county, Missouri, takes especial pleasure in recommending Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, because he knows it to be reliable. He has used it in his practice for several years, and says there is none better. It is especially valuable for colds and is a preventive and cure for croup. This most excellent medicine is for sale by J. B. McCullough, Druggist.

What They are Good For.

Brandrath's Pills are the best medicine known.

First They are purely vegetable, in fact a medicatrd fool.

Second—The same dose always produces the same effect—other purgatives requir increased doses and finally cease acting.

Third—They purify the blood.

Fourth—They invigorate the digestion and cleasse the stomach and bowels.

Fifth—They stimulate the liver and carry off vitiated bile and other depraved secretions.

The first two or three doses tell the story. The skin becomes clear, the eyes bright, and mind active, digestion is restored costiveness cured, the animal vigor is recruited and all decay arrested.

Brandreth's Pills are sold in every drug and medicine store, either plain or sugar coated.

MONARCHS HARD UP.

Fall of Some of Europe's Noted People.

The woes of dethroned and exiled monarchs have been abundantly treated in books and newspapers for the last few years, says a Paris correspondent of the New York Morning Journal. The novelists have given somber pictures of their troubles, and Republican journals have laughed at their expedients for "raising the wind."

Let us take a case in point, that of the still beautiful ex-Queen of Naples, who for so many years of her life inhabited that earthly paradise, the Caspo di Monte Palace at Naples. Every morning she had before her the most majestic panorama in Europe, the vast sweep of the bay, ranged around with its purple mountains, and the islands rising in turquoise-like splendor beneath the burning sun. High on the noble mountains she had a pleasure-house fit for a demi god, and filled with superb statues, pictures and gems.

The revolution roared and the Queen of Naples became ex-Queen. To-day she lives in a small boarding-house in the Rue Baissy d'Anglais in this city. The place is dignified by the name of Hotel Vouillemont, but is only a boarding-house after all. There could not be a greater descent than this. The ex-King and the ex-Queen bear their change of fortune bravely, but it is none the less galling.

Not all the Queens are so fortunate as Isabel of Spain, who has managed to keep hold of a considerable fortune, although it is nothing like what it is said to be. The royal lady made some very good bargains about some property of the nation, which she held so that the nation could not get it without her consent at the time of the revolution in 1868, and this has been the nest-egg of a fortune. There were times, however, between 1870 and 1875, when Isabel and her boy Alfonso knew the bitter pinchings of poverty, and were obliged to keep up appearances on very little. Her husband went to live in a small box of a country house near Chantilly, and she finally secured the Palais Basilewski, in the Avenue du Roi de Rome (now Avenue Kleber), in Paris, which has become very valuable, because fashion has smiled on the quarter.

The world knows little of the sufferings of the royal exiles, because their friends carefully mask their condition, exaggerate their incomes, and tell the strangest stories about an extravagance that does not exist. When a Milan or some other dissolute prince wins a few thousand francs at baccarat some toady at once spreads the story that the gain runs into the hundreds of thousands, and the same process is applied to losses. Meantime it is more than likely to be the fact that the royal personage in question has won only a roll or two of gold coins, and that he has had to pay them over to his landlord at once to avoid being dispossessed.

Ex-King Milan, for instance, who is represented as rolling in luxury in Paris, occupies a plain suit of apartments in the Avenue du Bois de Boulogne, where he is surrounded by the families of American merchants or English professional men or Russian landlords. He enjoys no privileges, and nothing would please a Parisian proprietaire better than to "bounce" an ex-king now and then. It would gratify his Republican prejudices.

Milan will soon have for a very near neighbor in his Parisian exile the lady whom he has so greatly wronged—the Queen of Servia. She is coming to stay with her sister, Princess Ghika, who lives hard by the ex-King's new abode. Probably the two will often jostle each other in the corridors of the fashionable circles or in the lobbies of the opera, and we may be pretty sure that Nathalie "will meet and pass, nor turn her face."

A melancholy example of a reduced monarch in exile is furnished by the venerable ex-Emperor of Brazil, who was banished from his empire in a night, and has since been a wanderer. His wife shrank from the appalling prospect of poverty in old age and exile, and she speedily sank away to rest, but Dom Pedro lingers still.

He lives in third-rate hotels, counting every cent of expenditure with the greatest care, for his son-in-law, the Comte d'Eu, declines to pay him a single son that is not strictly necessary. Some of the poor old man's economies are said to be quite heart-breaking, but he bears his lot with philosophical calmness.

Any disaster to the Orleans family, such as might come at any time, would leave Dom Pedro penniless.

His position is vastly changed from the time of his second visit to Paris, when he occupied one whole wing of the Grand Hotel and was acclaimed by the whole press as a "good Emperor." The same journals now speak of him as "a burlesque potentate," Such is life.

And think of the once brilliant and beautiful "Empress of the French," Eugenie, the arbiter of the world's fashion for eighteen years, now living in a hotel near the place where she once reigned as sovereign, and stealing out at night to gaze on the place in the Tuilleries where her child used to play! The mutabilities of fortune will never have a sharper illustration than this.

Gould's Creamery.

W. H. Gould informs a Gazette reporter that he is making 3,000 pounds of butter per month now. Mr. Gould is milking 75 cows of his own and using milk from the cows of ten farmers besides. He could sell three times the quantity of butter he is making. As predicted by the Gazette several months ago, the creamery is an immense success.

Happy Hoosiers.

Wm Timmons, Postmaster of Idaville, Ind, writes: "Electric Bitters has done more for me than all other medicines combined, for that bad feeling arising from Kidney and Liver trouble." John Leslie, farmer and stockman of same place, says: "Find th Electric Bitter to be the best Liver and Kidney medicine, made me feel like a new man." J. W. Gardner, hardware merchant, same town, says: "Electric Bitters is just the thing for a man who is all run down and don't care whether he lives or dies; he found new strength, good appetite and felt just like he had a new lease on life. Only 50c. a bottle at Wm. Pinniger's drug store.

Elect good men to offices.
Keep your sidewalks in good repair.
Sell all you can and buy all you can at home.
If you are rich invest in something; employ somebody.
Be courteous to strangers who come among you, so that they will go away with good impressions.
Always cheer on the men who go in for public improvements. Your portion of the cost will be nothing.

TO HURT YOUR TOWN.

Oppose improvements.
Mistrust its public men.
Run it down to strangers.
Go to some other town to trade.
Refuse to advertise in your home paper.
Do not invest a cent; lay your money out somewhere else.
Be careful to discredit the motives of public-spirited men.

If a man wishes to buy your property, charge him two prices for it.
If he wants anybody else's, interfere and discourage him.

Disasterous Failure!

It is with feelings of regret that we announce the failure of hosts of people troubled with inaction of the kidneys to take sufficient means to renew their activity. This failure is most disasterous, for a complete wreck of the organs themselver must eventuate if timely means are not taken to re-establish their secretive function on the basis of activity and regularity. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters renews both, and prevents ultimate and fatal disaster. As it is one of the functions of the kidneys to strain from the blood, in its passage through them, impurities procreative of dropsy, rheumatism and gout, an early impetus is all the more needful to be given to their operations when tardy or ineffectual. The unmedicated at mull of commerce do not answer this purpose. Use the Bitters for dyspepsia, malaria, constipation and billiousness.

Are Your Children Subject to Croup.

As a preventive and cure for croup, Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has no rival. It is, in fact, the only remedy that can always be depended upon and that is pleasant and safe to take. There is not the least danger in giving it to children, as it contains no injurious substance. For sale at 50 cents per bottle by J. B. McCullough, Druggist.

Guaranteed Cure.

We authorize our advertised druggist to sell Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds on this condition. If you are afflicted with a Cough, Cold or any Lung, Throat or Chest trouble, and will use this remedy as directed, giving it a fair trial, and experience no benefit, you may return the bottle and have your money refunded. We could not make this offer did we not know that Dr. King's New Discovery could be relied on. It never disappoints. Trial bottle free at W. P nniger's Drug Store. Large size 50c. and $1 00

SHILOH'S COUGH and Consumption Cure is sold by us on a guarantee. It cures Consumption. For sale by S. J. Hodgkinson.

IN NEED OF DISCIPLINE.

Why Children are so Regardless of Parental Authority.

A correspondent in the Household says: Is it to be marveled at that many children are so regardless of parental authority when they are under this kind of discipline?

"Tommy, go out and get me an armful of wood," commands Tommy's mother.

Tommy hears but goes on reading his book.

"Did you hear me Tommy? Go this minute!"

"Why cant Ned go?" asked Tommy, without taking his eyes from the page.

"Because I told you to go. That's why. Ned is busy, and if you don't go rigth along this very second and get that wood, I'll whip you."

Tommy neither replies nor moves.

"I'm going to tell your father the moment he comes home, you see if I don't, and you'll find out what you'll get."

Tommy turns a page and reads on.

"Tom! Are you or are you not going to get that wood? The fire is half out.

Tom yawns, lays down his book and stares out the window.

"Did you hear me?"

"Yes."

"Are you going?"

"I don't see why Ned can't do just as me to do evy'thing. I'll go for a nickel."

"You'll go for nothing, and that, too, in a hurry; now start!"

The mother stamps her foot. Tom gets his hat and goes out languidly. He sees a school-mate in the road; joins him and they walk away together. Ten minutes later the tired mother comes out and gets the wood herself, and that was the end of it all.

WESTERN WORKINGMEN.

Interesting Facts Developed by Investigation.

Statistics Showing the Prosperous Condition of the Laboring Classes in Certain Industries.

The report of the Michigan bureau of labor and industrial statistics bespeaks careful attention. It may be said, says the Providence (R. I.) Journal, that industrial conditions in the west differ from those at the east, and that we in this portion of the country must take exception now and again, for this reason, to the finding of the bureau as detailed in this report, but certainly a painstaking investigation over so wide a field as the state of Michigan cannot but prove of general interest and value. Moreover, the Michigan bureau has conducted similar investigations for eight years, and in that time has acquired much experience in collating facts like those now presented.

It would not be fair to say that the daily life of the workingman is pictured with absolute correctness, for all such canvasses as the Michigan bureau has made from home to home must be incomplete. But we may be sure that an approximately correct idea of that status of workingmen, at least in certain industries, may be gained from a study of the bureau's statistics. No attempt to secure figures for all varieties of industry was made, the labors of investigators being confined chiefly to the agricultural implement and iron working laborers, although a few establishments of other character were visited. The two industries named are among the best known and longest established in the state, and it was considered that an inquiry among these would be valuable as affording an idea of how the better paid classes of workmen live. It is said that in these two branches of manufacture workingmen receive relatively high wages, and that they may be taken to represent the more prosperous grade of employes.

For the purposes of this report 8,838 workmen were visited and confronted with a long list of questions on many interesting subjects pertaining to their home life. They were asked whether or not they owned the houses in which they lived; if there were encumbrances on their property; if they carried life insurance and to what amount; how much wages they received and how much they saved; whether or not they owned pianos or sewing machines, and a variety of other questions. It was found that out of the 8,838 to whom these queries were put one earned $40 a week and 125 from $20 to $30, while at the other end of the pay roll were a dozen boys who received but $2 a week and 322 more with $3 or less. About 15 per cent. received $15 or over, and more than 17 per cent. less than $7, while the average for the whole number, married and single men, was $10.06, and that for the married men $11.50. The average total amount for the year was $467, the married men averaging $525, a small annual income on which to support a family, in the estimation of a good many more favored people. But, with this amount, it is evident that the families of these Michigan workingmen have been prosperous, at least in many cases.

As many as 2,328 of the employes who were visited owned their houses and nearly half this number were unburdened with mortgages. Almost all the householders were married men, moreover, and 46 per cent. of the families concerning whom the state bureau made inquiries were therefore installed in their own homes. It is worth while to note, in passing, that of these house owners the largest proportion were Germans, Hollanders, and Irish, with the Scotchmen and Poles not far behind. The Scotchman's house cost $2,025, however, and that of the Poles $956, the average among all nationalities reaching $1,312.

Nor are the comforts of everyday life forbidden, although the average wages would not seem, at first thought, to afford much margin for these. The American laborer looks upon certain luxuries as necessities, and the Michigan figures seem to show that he is able to possess some of them. Sixty-nine per cent. of the families visited owned sewing machines, and it is fair to assume that these are positive luxuries in many a home, where in less prosperous days there was an inordinate amount of sewing by hand. Sixty-seven per cent. of all the employes interviewed took newspapers and magazines, and half of them daily papers, and more than one-fifth of the 8,238 possessed musical instruments of one kind or another, while there were found 700 organs and 314 pianos. A fourth of the whole number of men were insured, the average amount being nearly $1,500, and 40 per cent. saved money last year. In all, $175,470 was paid out in that time for homes and improvements upon them, and $329,880 in cash was saved. This is a good general showing, and may be taken to indicate fairly the financial status of a large body of workingmen in a representative state of the west.

RAILWAY BIRD'S NEST.

Slow Traveling in England Gives the Swallows a Chance.

After all that has been said of the achievements of the British railways in the matter of speed there is a sense of refreshment in this item which London Engineering quotes from a London paper:

"Some illustrations of modern railway speed cited before the parliamentary committee on the cross-country railway bill merit especial attention, showing what can be accomplished when a railway company makes an effort. A Buxton coal merchant says that sometimes the Midland company manages to convey coal from Buxton to Chesterfield in eleven to thirty-four days, and as the towns are more than twenty miles apart it will be seen that sometimes the coal trains dash along the line at the rate of two miles a day.

"Once the witness found a bird's nest in a truck which had been thirty days on the way, and he reasonably believes that the nest was built and the eggs laid during the month. Yet this Buxton merchant is not happy and desires a change."

STRANDED FISHES.

Car Loads Rescued from Shallow Streams and Pools.

In reply to a letter of complaint published in Forest and Stream, the United States fish commissioners give an explanation of their apparent neglect in the upper Mississippi. The complainant says in his letter that while on the river between Dubuque and St. Louis he saw tons of black bass and great northern pike rotting in shallow pools, wherein they had been left by the falling river, and asks why the fish commissioners do not scoop them up and transport them to safer waters. In 1888, says the commissioners, two cars of the commission were left to the Illinois commissioners, together with the necessary number of men, for the purpose of rescuing the fish left in the pools along the river. From July 15 to October 5 twenty-six car loads of fish were rescued and transported to Illinois waters. In 1889 two cars were used, and in 1890 three. The fish deposited were from four to fourteen inches long. Since then the government has been actively engaged in the work on a large scale, and has rescued many millions of valuable food fishes. The commissioners say that all states subject to any considerable mortality of fish life should take steps immediately to secure the fish.

Three Notable Families.

This county contains three remarkable families, writes a Milan (Tenn.) correspondent. It is perhaps safe to say that it contains the tallest, the heaviest and the lightest families in the country. The tall family consists of four persons—father, mother, son and daughter. The tallest member, the son, measures 6 feet 8 inches; the shortest, the mother, 6 feet 2 inches. The heavy family is composed of father, mother and daughter, and their united weight is over 900 pounds. The light family number ten persons, father, mother and eight children, whose united weight is 513 pounds.

A Run of Hard Luck.

There may be no such thing as bad luck, but it would be difficult to convince an old Johnstown (Pa.) carpenter named D. Yarrington of the fact. At the time of the Johnstown flood he lost one child and all his property. Friends made up a purse for him and he went to Arizona. Here another flood washed away all of his earthly possessions and drowned a second child. He then went to Oklahoma, and there the other day a third flood beggared him and drowned his remaining child.

FACTS ABOUT THE TEA WE DRINK.

But few people know that there is such a thing as sun-cured tea in existence, and fewer have seen it. But there is, and it is of all teas the sweetest, purest, and most fragrant. You ask at once how it is that it is not offered for sale and that you know nothing of it. That is answered easily; but it is necessary to present first a few details. The public only knows two general classes, viz., the green and the black teas.

Green Teas.

Few people know that the bright bluish-green color of the ordinary teas exposed in the windows is not the natural color. Unpleasant as the fact may be, it is nevertheless artificial; Prussian blue, silica, gypsum, plumbago, and other unhealthful mineral colors being used for this purpose. The effect is twofold. It not only makes the tea a bright, shiny, a [illegible] green, but also permits the use of "off-color" and worthless teas, which, once under the green cloak, are readily worked off as a good quality of tea. The abominable coloring practice even admits of the use of foreign substances, and the English government, which looks closer into the genuineness of its staples than ours, has in some of the [illegible] "tea" of teas found redried leaves, straw, fragments of matting, rice-husks, and willow leaves. In fact, it is openly stated by an English authority that hundreds of thousands of pounds of sloe, ash, and willow leaves are annually imported as tea, which without the coloring process would be impossible. They report tea as one of the most notoriously [illegible] articles of commerce. The temptation to make sweepings and bad tea into a merchantable product with a few cents' worth of green coloring matter is too strong to withstand, and the worthlessness of the trash that often finds its way to this market labeled "New Crop," "First Quality," "Green Tea," etc., would simply astound the public if revealed, to say nothing of the unhealthfulness of the Prussian blue, plumbago, gypsum, and the other mineral colors that are employed.

Black Teas.

The basket and pan-fired Japan teas, as well as the China teas that may be [illegible] under the general [illegible] of "black teas," get their color from the drying or toasting process, but mineral coloring matter is also frequently used to give a certain desired commercial appearance. The firing and the coloring, as in the green teas, largely conceals the identity of the tea and permits the use of the very cheapest teas, to argue nothing for the deteriorating effect of excessive firing, which must be resorted to when [illegible] cheap product is used and an extreme color desired.

Beech's Tea (Sun-dried).

Concerning [illegible] the people of the Pacific Coast have heard but [illegible] and know less, although it is extensively [illegible] where it is known and understood. [illegible] when tea is so poor it cannot be sold at home or safely shipped to the English [illegible], it is shipped to America; that we will drink anything. That may possibly be one of the reasons we have not been [illegible] teas. They were good enough to send over here.

The sun-dried teas being sun-cured, no coloring matter is used, hence nothing but pure tea leaves can be [illegible]; for unassisted by manipulation [illegible] at tempts at adulteration or the introduction of foreign leaves or material would be too glaring. That it is, therefore, sweeter and far more fragrant than the artificially colored green teas and the manipulated basket or pan-fired teas, you hardly need be told. That it is more healthful than the mineral-colored teas, is also apparent. That it is more expensive, is also true; and that is another reason you have never seen it. There is not so much profit in it as there is in the cheap adulterated and colored teas.

About the Cost of Teas.

According to the custom-house reports, the amount of tea received at San Francisco last year (1890) was 6,840,137 pounds, and the value $956,290, or a fraction over 13c per pound. The consumer, of which the reader was one, paid for that 13c tea all the way from 50c to $1 per pound. In other words, for that $956,290 worth of tea the consumer paid between four and five millions of dollars. There are your enormous profits, and there you will probably find the chief reason why most of you never heard of a sun-dried tea. As the sun-dried teas have no mask, they are compelled to be absolutely pure and of better quality than the artificially colored and manipulated teas. Hence the margins on them are smaller, and many dealers don't care about handling them, and you know nothing about them. But it is the object of this article to tell you where you can get them, and what to ask for, and all about them.

"Beech's Tea."

"Beech's Tea," guaranteed to be the pure sun-cured leaves, is now offered to the people of the Pacific Coast. It will be a revelation to you. You doubtless never saw any natural leaf. Have your grocer break open a package. It will be found in color to be just between the artificially colored green and the black teas, and the drawn tea presents a clear, brilliant canary color, of delightful fragrance. It is offered to the people at 60c per pound, the same price that many artificially colored teas are sold for. But its guaranteed purity makes it more economical to use; for a less quantity, say about twenty grains, is required per cup. As there are 7,680 grains to a pound, there will be seen to be between three and four hundred cups to the pound, or at the rate of about one fifth of a cent per cup. Its economy is therefore manifest. It is put up in one-pound packages only, in patent air-tight and moisture-proof parchment, with the trade-mark that is found at the bottom of this article plainly printed on the package. It is sold in this form for two reasons; one is, that the original strength and aroma is preserved; and second, there can be no deception, which would be quite possible if it were sold in bulk, without the name and trade-mark attached.

Caution.

Recollect that the margin of profit is so much smaller on Beech's pure sun-dried teas than on the artificially colored teas that you won't get it if tea by any other name can be put off on you. Ask for

If your grocer does not have it, he will get it for you. Price 60c per pound. The above trade-mark and price is plainly printed on each package.

A Necessity.

The consumption of tea largely increases every year in England, Russia, and the principal European tea-drinking countries. But it does not grow in America. And not alone that, but thousands of Europeans who leave Europe ardent lovers of tea, upon arriving in the United States gradually discontinue its use, and finally cease it altogether.

This state of things is due to the fact that the Americans think so much of business and so little of their palates that they permit China and Japan to ship them their cheapest and most worthless teas. Between the wealthy classes of China and Japan and the exacting and cultivated tea-drinkers of Europe, the finer teas find a ready market. The balance of the crop comes to America. Is there any wonder, then, that our taste for tea does not appreciate?

In view of these facts, is there not an immediate demand for the importation of a brand of tea that is guaranteed to be uncolored, unmanipulated, and of absolute purity? We think there is, and present Beech's Tea. Its purity is guaranteed in every respect. It has, therefore, more inherent strength than the cheap teas you have been drinking, fully one third less being required for an infusion. This you will discover the first time you make it. Likewise, the flavor is delightful, being the natural flavor of an unadulterated article. It is a revelation to tea-drinkers. Sold only in packages bearing this mark:
